ICF International Awarded Framework Contract Valued at Up to EUR 10 Million to Advise European Commission's Environment DG on Atmospheric Policy

April 30, 2007

Services to Address Climate Change, Ambient Air Quality, and Impacts on Health and Environment

LONDON--(BUSINESS WIRE)--April 30, 2007--ICF International (NASDAQ:ICFI) announced today that it has been awarded through its subsidiary, ICF Consulting Limited, a new contract with a EUR 10 million (valued at US$13 million) ceiling over four years. ICF will advise the European Commission's Environment Directorate-General (DG) on a range of atmospheric policy issues including climate change and air quality, and their concomitant impacts on health and the environment.

“We are pleased to support the European Commission's Environment DG on atmospheric policy,” said Abyd Karmali, managing director of ICF’s London office. “The European Union (EU) has stated very clearly its intention to act firmly on climate change and on air quality through the European Climate Change Programme and Thematic Strategy on Air Pollution. Some of the key challenges facing the European Union include the different approaches taken by member states in implementing directives and the need to continually evolve policy to keep pace with changes in the science.”

This framework contract provides a mechanism by which the European Commission will be able to access high quality and quick turnaround analysis to support design, analysis, review, and implementation of proposed policies.

"ICF will be bringing considerable experience to this framework contract," said Dr. Aleksandra Simic, an ICF senior economist based in London. "We have long supported policymakers, including the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, in a variety of countries on issues related to clean air and climate change. This is an exciting opportunity for ICF to apply our in-depth expertise and innovative techniques to help shape environmental policy and improve the quality of life throughout Europe."

ICF International (NASDAQ:ICFI) partners with government and commercial clients to deliver consulting services and technology solutions in the energy, environment, transportation, social programmes, defense, and homeland security markets. The firm combines passion for its work with industry expertise and innovative analytics to produce compelling results throughout the entire programme life cycle, from analysis and design through implementation and improvement. Since 1969, ICF has been serving government at all levels, major corporations, and multilateral institutions. More than 2,000 employees serve these clients worldwide. ICF's Web site is www.icfi.com.

This document may contain "forward-looking statements" as that term is defined in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995—that is, statements related to future—not past—events, plans, and prospects. These statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties, and other factors that may cause our actual results, levels of activity, performance, or achievements to be materially different from any future results, levels of activity, performance, or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. In some cases, you can identify these statements by forward-looking words such as “guidance,” “anticipate,” “believe,” “could,” “estimate,” “expect,” “intend,” “may,” “plan,” “potential,” “seek,” “should,” “will,” “would,” or similar words. You should read statements that contain these words carefully because they discuss our future expectations, contain projections of our future results of operations or of our financial position, or state other forward-looking information, and are subject to factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those anticipated. For ICF, particular uncertainties that could adversely or positively affect the Company's future results include but are not limited to: risks related to the government contracting industry, including the timely approval of government budgets, changes in client spending priorities, and the results of government audits and investigations; risks related to our business, including our dependence on contracts with U.S. Federal Government agencies and departments and the State of Louisiana; continued good relations with these and other customers; success in competitive bidding on recompete and new contracts; performance by ICF and its subcontractors under our contract with the State of Louisiana, Office of Community Development, including but not limited to the risks of failure to achieve certain levels of program activities, termination, or material modification of the contract, and political uncertainties relating to The Road Home program; uncertainties as to whether revenues corresponding to the Company's contract backlog will actually be received; the future of the energy sector of the global economy; our ability to attract and retain management and staff; strategic actions, including attempts to expand our service offerings and client base, the ability to make acquisitions, and the performance and future integration of acquired businesses; risks associated with operations outside the United States, including but not limited to international, regional, and national economic conditions, including the effects of terrorist activities, war, and currency fluctuations; and other risks and uncertainties disclosed in the Company’s filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. These uncertainties may cause ICF's actual future results to be materially different than those expressed in the Company's forward-looking statements. ICF does not undertake to update its forward-looking statements.

CONTACT: ICF International
Abyd Karmali, +44.20.7092.3005
or
Stacey Hohenberg, +1.703.218.2504

SOURCE: ICF International